Week 3 and 4

The transition children are proving to be very ready for school in 2018. They are producing some fabulous school work and their attention is improving.

Children have been busy planning for school concert on the 8th of December. They are planning a circus themed event which is looking to be spectacular!

Students need to remember to read at home. If you are not already, please remember to read with you child. Junior Primary students have a reading record in their blue folder that needs to be at school every day. Children are rewarded for continually reading at home and we really appreciate it when parents spend time reading with them at night time.

In maths the Upper Primary students had to collect data from each other on their favourite sport. They had to draw a bar graph. Riley chose to also do a bar and pie graph using the data.

Message from Tracey Pastoral Care Worker

Dear Parents, Care givers and Community Members

Today at coffee morning Helen Hennessey from the CFS was our guest speaker. She reinforced her earlier visits of being bushfire ready. Her practical advise about having a written bushfire action plan and what to have regarding clothing to protect yourself ready for use was well received. She demonstrated how she herself purchased overalls, hat, gloves, mask and proper footwear, mostly from op shops was a very cost effective way of being ready, and how we all can do this. I sincerely thank Helen for her willingness to visit our school and answer questions and give us the power to make sure we are thinking and prepared. This is the best way so we do not panic in an emergency.

I have enjoyed working with all our new students and the transition students too. At this time of year I am always aware that soon our Year 7's will be finishing at Tarlee Primary School, I hope they enjoy these last weeks of term. I hear that the high school transition visits have been going well.

With Gratitude day approaching and preparation for school concert underway the last weeks of term fly by quickly.

Best wishes to Brooke and James for their Wedding Day, Congratulations.

Have a great fortnight.

With kindest regards, Tracey
